

SKULL ALBUM

YOU'LL NEED: 1 x MDF Skull Album, 3 x contrasting paint colours
- we used a dark brown, yellow and white, Kraftex Creative Cracks, Kraftex Seal Coat, 2 x foam brushes, Album rings, plastic cup, epoxy glue, cutters and embellishments like brads and stickers.

Step One: Paint three of the four wooden pieces (not the base piece which has the cross bones on it) with brown paint. Dry. Paint a second coat on one of the middle pieces.

Step Two: Paint the other middle piece (that has one layer of brown paint on it), with a coat of yellow - make it look distressed and uneven.

Step Three: Paint a thinish layer of Creative Cracks on to the top piece and wait a few minutes for it to become tacky but not dry. Lightly paint over the Creative Cracks with white paint and then allow it to dry completely. You should start to see the white paint separate within a few minutes and the brown colour coming through from underneath.

Step Four: Paint the base piece white, dry and paint a second coat. Dry. Using Creative Cracks as with the top piece, paint a thinish layer of it on to the base piece. Wait a few minutes for it to become tacky but not dry. Lightly paint over the Creative Cracks with brown paint and then allow to dry completely. You should start to see the brown paint separate within a few minutes and the white colour coming through from underneath.

Step Five: Now using a clean brush, pour some Seal Coat in to a clean plastic cup and paint the Seal Coat over each piece on the sides, front and back. Seal Coat is a mineral based 'varnish' which will waterproof and protect your set of drawers. Once completely dry, put the album together using the supplied Album Rings and embellish with stickers and/or brads. When sticking on the brads, use some cutters to take off the back pins and so when you glue them on, they will sit flat.
